Ask the sky before you act.

Pythia

Hello, I'm Pythia. Try asking: "Is Mercury retrograde?", "How compatible are a Leo and a Pisces as roommates?", or "I'm a Capricorn, should I ask for a raise this week?"

What's going on in the sky right now? Anything retrograde?

Pluto: 3°06' Aquarius (Retrograde)

Retrograde Report

We have a few outer planets taking their sweet time in retrograde right now:

Saturn, Uranus, Neptune, and Pluto.

With the Sun in harmonious, relationship-focused Libra and the Moon cozying up in grounded Taurus, it's a lovely cosmic backdrop for balancing partnerships and appreciating simple comforts. Meanwhile, those outer planet retrogrades in fire and air signs invite us to quietly review our long-term goals, structures, and inner growth behind the scenes.

Is there a specific decision you're weighing or a zodiac sign you're curious about today?

I'm a Gemini. Should I ask for a raise this week?

Verdict: Proceed with caution.

Here is the breakdown for your sign:

Risk Score:* 1 (out of a max where 2+ means wait)

Active Retrograde Influence:* Saturn is currently retrograde, which can sometimes bring a bit of friction with authority figures or make recognition for your hard work feel a little delayed.

As a Gemini, your quick wit and communication skills are always top-tier, but with Saturn pressing the pause button on formalities and career structures, you'll want to prep your case extra thoroughly before walking into that meeting. Have your concrete achievements lined up, keep your tone grounded, and be prepared to be patient if the final answer takes a little longer than expected!

How are you feeling about making the ask?

What about signing a lease?

Verdict: Proceed with caution.

Here is the breakdown for signing a lease as a Gemini right now:

Risk Score:* 1

Active Retrograde Influence:* Saturn is retrograde, which encourages you to take a very close, careful second look at long-term commitments, fine print, and binding obligations.

A lease is a big contract, and while Mercury (your ruling planet) is thankfully direct right now—meaning your communication and clarity are sharp—Saturn's influence means you shouldn't rush the dotted line.

Make sure to read every single clause of that agreement (especially the fine print on maintenance, fees, and break clauses). If everything checks out and you feel confident, go for it, but don't skip the homework!

Okay so I'm a gemini and my crush is a taurus, are we compatible? Should I ask them out? When should I ask them?

Compatibility: Gemini & Taurus (Romantic)

*Compatibility Score: 49% (Proceed with curiosity!)

The Dynamic: You're an Air sign (curious, quick, social) and they're an Earth sign (steady, grounded, sensory). Taurus loves routine and stability, while Gemini loves variety and mental stimulation. It can be a lovely "opposites attract" pairing—they help ground your buzzing energy, and you help pull them out of their comfort zone—but it definitely takes a little patience to bridge the gap in your pacing.

Timing: Should you send that text/ask them out?

Verdict: Proceed!

*Risk Score: 0.

Good news: the cosmic coast is completely clear for sending messages and making romantic moves right now (Mercury and Venus are both direct!). Your ruling planet Mercury is moving smoothly, so your charm and communication are fully online.

If you want to ask them out, go for it! Just remember that Taurus appreciates a cozy, tactile, and well-thought-out plan (think a nice coffee shop or a quiet dinner spot rather than a chaotic, last-minute hangout). Good luck!
